

POLL SHOWS BNP SET TO BE THIRD PARTY

Brain-washing of Britain has failed says new race survey

A PATH-BREAKING NATIONAL SURVEY by the Daily Express has shown that the British National Party is set to become Britain's third party - displacing the Liberal Democrats. The survey showed that two-thirds of people in Britain admit to being 'racist', and that more people will support a party favouring repatriation of immigrants, and 'whites first', than support the Liberal Democrats.

- Two-thirds of Britons admit they are 'racist'
- Majority want repatriation grants to be introduced - including 74% of non-whites
- 26% support nationalist politics - more than support Liberal Democrats
- Less than half of non-whites feel British

The majority of Britons support Government resettlement grants to assist non-whites to return to their own countries - something for which the BNP has far-sightedly campaigned since its formation in 1982. Significantly 74% of non-whites also back the introduction of repatriation grants.

After decades of massive immigration, and a huge media campaign to brain-wash people into believing in the multi-racial society, fewer than 50% of non-whites said that they felt British - frankly most have more sense than many whites about race.

Naturally neither the survey nor the Daily Express report mentioned the BNP - that would never do would it? The public were asked whether they would support a party with policies similar to those of Jean-Marie Le Pen's Front National in France - whose manifesto calls for priority for native citizens in jobs,

BNP LAUNCHES 50 SEAT ELECTION CRUSADE

The British National Party launched its flagship campaign to stand 50 candidates in the General Election at a key activists' rally in the Midlands during August. In an atmosphere of great enthusiasm the meeting set the guidelines for party's activities between now and the election, which will probably not occur for well over a year.

All party members and supporters are called on to contribute in every way - financially and otherwise - to make the campaign a success. No nationalist group has stood as many as 50 candidates in a general election - earning TV and radio official broadcasts - since the BNP in the early 1980s..

A successful campaign by the BNP in the utterly changed circumstances of the 1990s. - witness the opinion poll on which we report on this page - will put the party at the centre of politics in this country.

For all our sakes, and especially our children's, let us make the next year or more until the General Election the most successful period in the BNP's history!

SOCIETIES NEED DEFENDING

When future historians look back on Britain, during the post Second World War period, what factor will stand out as the most significant in accounting for the decline in our social fabric?

Surely it will be the unprecedented withdrawal, by countless millions of our people, from everyday participation in maintaining standards of decent behaviour. Anti-social behaviour was once controlled largely by ordinary folk making their displeasure plain.

Immediately after the war the old ways were still in evidence. Passers-by would quickly congregate around anyone behaving badly in the street, and make their objections plain. Now few will risk a word of complaint, for fear of the very real risk of physical attack by those who have come with good reason to expect no challenge.

The same disease spread decades ago into the institutions supposed to maintain civilised behaviour.

It is the little things which are so telling about a society which refuses to protect its interests. Left-wing bookshops all over the country - some of them registered charities - now openly sell publications calling for the murder of police officers. Nothing is done despite complaints to both the police and MPs..

Why are the owners of these shops not prosecuted? Because the whole society has become paralysed from normal functioning.

If an average Briton from the thirties could be instantly time-travelled into the nineties, he would be baffled by what he saw around him.

What has brought such a thing about? One fundamental change has been central to the disaster.

The well-intentioned policy of the 1945 Labour Government was that the state should take on a far wider range of responsibilities than before the war. Few wanted to return to the pre-war world in which medical care, for example, was often unavailable to the poor.

What was not foreseen was the paralysing effect that 'big government' would have on the sense of responsibility of the ordinary citizen.

Anyone who canvasses for a British political party can hear it on the doorsteps of countless homes. Whatever the problem the response is the same. 'They' or 'The Council' should do something. A sense of personal duty is in striking eclipse.

Until we reconstruct our social attitudes, so that Government continues to provide what markets cannot, but with a renewed sense of personal responsibility as well, we will continue to slide.

Race and Britain: decades of brain-washing fails ...

housing, and social security, and additionally expulsion of all illegal immigrants, and organised repatriation of the remaining immigrants. In Britain, London alone has one million illegals!

A ban on obtaining citizenship by marriage, and no right to nationality because of being born in France, are other policies. The BNP's policies are very similar to those of the FN.

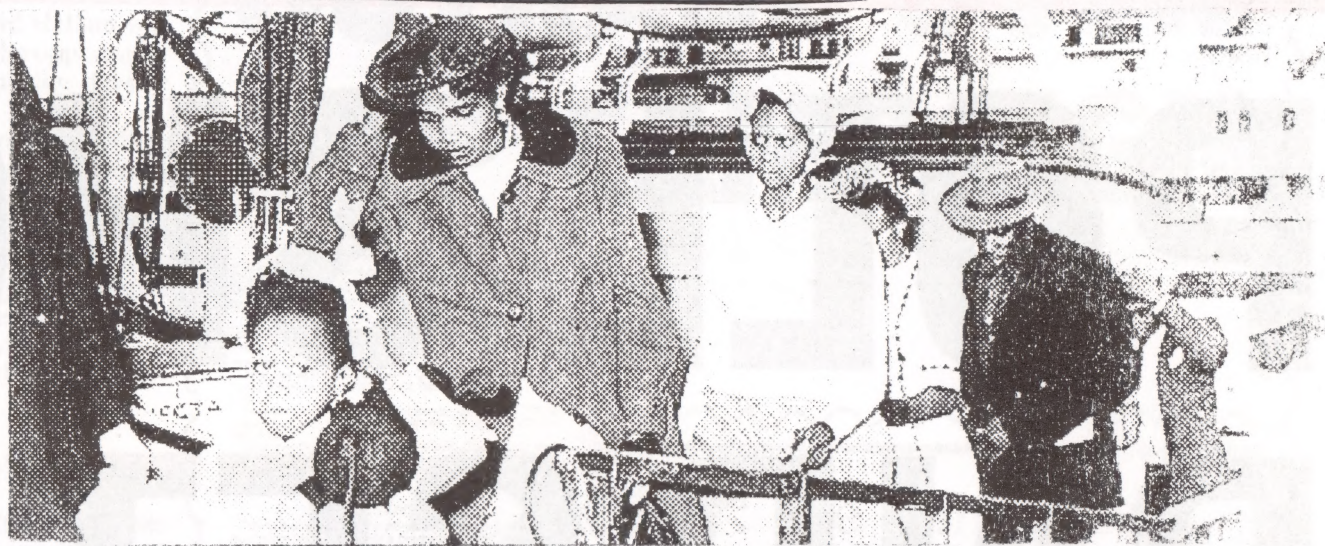

The results of a poll like this are taken from a sample of people from all areas - including districts where there has been little or no immigration, and people have no practical experience of what multi-racialism really means - many with starry-eyed notions drawn from television propaganda. Rejection of multi-racialism will thus be much higher in immigrant areas than the poll revealed.

ROLE MODEL

Linford Christie was named in the survey as Britain's top black role model, despite being a millionaire who has failed to support his own children, most of the burden of whose upbringing has fallen onto the long-suffering British taxpayer (Ethnic Time Bomb Page 3).

26% of voters said they support, or may support, the right-wing policies of parties like the FN or BNP. Remarkably 15% of immigrants said they might support such parties too! Among the over 65s, the figure was far higher - 35%. Within the 18-24 group it was very little lower at 24%.

BN says that older people are more realistic as a result of experience, and the fact that support for right-wing policies is lower among younger people does not indicate fundamental change in British attitudes. Younger people will soon form the same opinions as they gain experience of the realities of life.

VIEWS OF FRIENDS

When those polled were asked how their friends felt about right-wing opinions, the figures reflected more support than when they were asked about their own views.

30% of men in the survey, for example, said that right-wing views were attractive to their friends - indicating that voters are reluctant to admit to their real views in surveys, and what they really think is better obtained indirectly by asking what others might think.

SHIFTING SANDS

The fact that a national newspaper has commissioned a poll, asking questions about race which have been largely avoided for many years, indicates the shifting sands within British society, after a long period of numbing paralysis.

The poll showed that there is a general perception of increasing nervousness about race and immigration. Anyone living in Britain knows this - it is the fact that the national media will now admit it which is so telling.

For years a picture has been painted of growing 'racial harmony' which was a deliberate deception, and quite at odds with the realities for those living in multi-racial areas.

The truth is that so-called multi-racial societies are misery for everyone - whether black or white.

EXCLUSIVE: Two-thirds of people admit feeling bias

Britain divided by race

THE extraordinary extent of racial division in Britain can be revealed today. In a ground-breaking Daily Express survey, white and coloured people alike admit the nation is a racist country.

Will Kashmir decide the next election?

A ROW over the Labour Party's policy on Kashmir has underlined how the increasing immigrant vote could decide the outcome of the next election. The Shadow Foreign Secretary, Robin Cook, opened a can of worms when he told a meeting of Indians, held at Brent Town Hall, that Labour regarded Kashmir as a part of India.

An angry backlash, from the well organised Pakistani community in Britain, has spelled out two of the new realities of British politics following decades of mass immigration imposed on an unconsenting British people.

Firstly, if the next election does not produce a landslide for Labour, then enough seats could be decided by immigrants to alter which party forms the next Government. Secondly, whether Labour attracts the votes of immigrants will substantially be decided by their policies - not on this country's affairs - but concerning the affairs of the immigrants' homelands!

Kashmir and its affairs could literally decide who sits in Downing Street in 1997!

So much for the 'politically correct' claim that immigrants have little connection with their homelands, which are an alien place to them, to which it would be unthinkable to ask them to return!

The fact of the matter is that, like

Koreans in the United States, the real loyalties of immigrants are very natural ones - to their own countries and peoples.

Labour has concluded that it cannot win the next election without the Indian vote - hence Mr. Cook's speech. Indian voters are far more spread out than Pakistanis, and thus able to influence more seats. Indians outnumber Pakistanis in more than sixty seats.

An example is extreme-left wing Ken Livingstone's seat in Brent. There are nearly 6000 Indian voters, but only 1,700 Pakistanis.

Even if the next election is not decided by the immigrant vote, their massive uncontrolled increase in numbers will soon bring us to the position in which every election, which produces a Government majority which is not very large, will be decided by immigrant demands.

In London over half the children in schools are immigrant. Without a repatriation program, we will soon be in the position in which the capital city's MPs. can only be elected if they promise to satisfy the worldwide demands of people who have arrived here without a word of permission from the British people.

All the main parties have shamelessly toadied to immigrants for decades. The time is coming in which they will have no future at all without doing so.

Tories doomed by age and poverty?

THE END may well now be nigh for the Tory Party - or at least not far off. If what has been described as the most successful electoral machine in history finally and deservedly comes to grief it will have been destroyed by its own actions.

A report delivered to John Major by Tory Central Office said that the party would effectively cease to exist as a political machine within a very few years unless major changes were made.

Anyone with even limited contact with the Tories has known the situation for some years. Young people will not join the Conservatives. The Young Conservatives, which were once a huge organisation in their own right, now barely exist.

The Federation of Conservative Students was shut down for being too rightwing. The internal political groups, and women's organisation, are a shadow of their former selves. The Monday Club, for example, has effectively ceased to exist.

A typical branch of the main party is little more than a social club for old-age pensioners. Anyone who joins the party finds that there is virtually no opportunity for politics at all. Everything is decided by the caucus who run the Tories centrally. Grass roots members have no say in policy.

The lack of democracy was once not a problem. Policies reflected what most members wanted. They were thus happy to accept others making the decisions. All that has changed. Activists in all parties are harder line on policy than most members, and as the Tories have abandoned any pretense at being a pro-British, or patriotic organisation, they have melted away.

The average activist holds views similar to those of Enoch Powell, and few will continue to work when so little hope remains of their views being reflected in party policy.

Major has been told that the only hope is democratisation - without new blood there is no future - and new blood will not come in without their inevitably right-wing views being put into practice.

Here lies the Tory dilemma. To save the party means bringing in those who will get rid of the old guard, who have deceived almost the entire British public for decades with their bogus patriotism. The leadership would, in effect, have to commit hara-kiri to save the show.

The Tories are also in debt to the extent of nearly £20m.. There is a decreasing logic in the traditional big business supporters putting money into the Conservatives. Most are now international companies with no critical stake in Britain. The biggest contributor, United Biscuits, cut off funding last year.

Death of family life in Britain?

West Indians lead collapse into single-parenthood

A SECRET Government report shows that black families in Britain are in a state of almost complete breakdown. Six out of ten black mothers are single parents - compared with two out of ten whites. The white birth rate outside marriage has also rocketed - from only one in twenty in 1960.

The scale of the black family meltdown is shockingly illustrated in research carried out by a West Indian during the 1980s. A third of West Indian children in Hackney did not know who their fathers were!

COLONIAL REVENGE

Professor of Sociology Geoff Dench says that lavish social security payments, combined with 'colonial revenge', explains why so many black men expect other people to take responsibility for their children.

William Trant, director of the West Indian Standing Conference, suggests that the absence of black fathers is partly due to the high number of young blacks in jail, or mental hospitals, and also unemployment.

David Shaw, a Tory member of the Commons Select Committee on Social Security, said that communities with high rates of single parenthood could prove catastrophic. In the US 70% of those in prison for serious offences are from single parent families, and the trend in Britain has frightening implications for the future.

West Indian former Mayor of loony-left Lambeth Council Pauline Watson takes a different view however. "To suggest that young black men are promiscuous is as outrageous as Sir Paul Condon's suggesting that 80% of muggings are done by young black men" she says. If figures for single motherhood among blacks were higher than among whites, this was due to abortion being frowned on she said.

Millionaire athlete Linford Christie, who earns £30,000 a race, has three children by two different women. He pays £60 per week under a court order to support two of the children - with nearly £180 per week extra coming from taxpayers for the mother and the family. His other child's mother has never received any support from Christie.

PROFESSIONAL

The culture of dependency in Western countries is destroying the family. Pregnancy has become a route to housing, and a lifelong state income, which increasing numbers of young women willingly take. The Tory Government has made marriage financially disadvantageous, by changes to the tax system, while claiming to be the 'party of the family'.

In one Manchester comprehensive school 13 out of 14 children in one class became pregnant within two years of leaving school in order to milk social security benefits. Teachers encouraged them when they told staff they intended to become 'professional' mothers.

Former English teacher Ed Mackrill said he fought a lonely struggle to get the girls to obtain qualifications. "They

- Six out of ten black mothers are single parents
- Two out of ten white mothers are single parents
- Unwed birthrate has increased from one in twenty in 1960 to more than one in three knew they were on a better deal if they got pregnant and stayed single, and were richly rewarded by the council" he said.

The same story is repeated all over the country. Every encouragement is given to our young people to drop out of society. It unhappily makes perfect economic sense to live off the state - especially when Government has no policy to provide jobs.

TAX BURDEN

Those who work in low paid jobs are forced to bear an unprecedented tax burden to support those who have thrown themselves into what was intended merely as a safety net.

A married couple with two children, earning £150 per week, are £40 worse off than a single working mother on the same wage!

Government policy is also to bend over backwards in encouraging female employment, despite the fact that the numbers of female unemployed make up only a small fraction of the total. There are thus relatively fewer and fewer jobs for men, which will allow them to support a family, thus further encouraging its collapse.

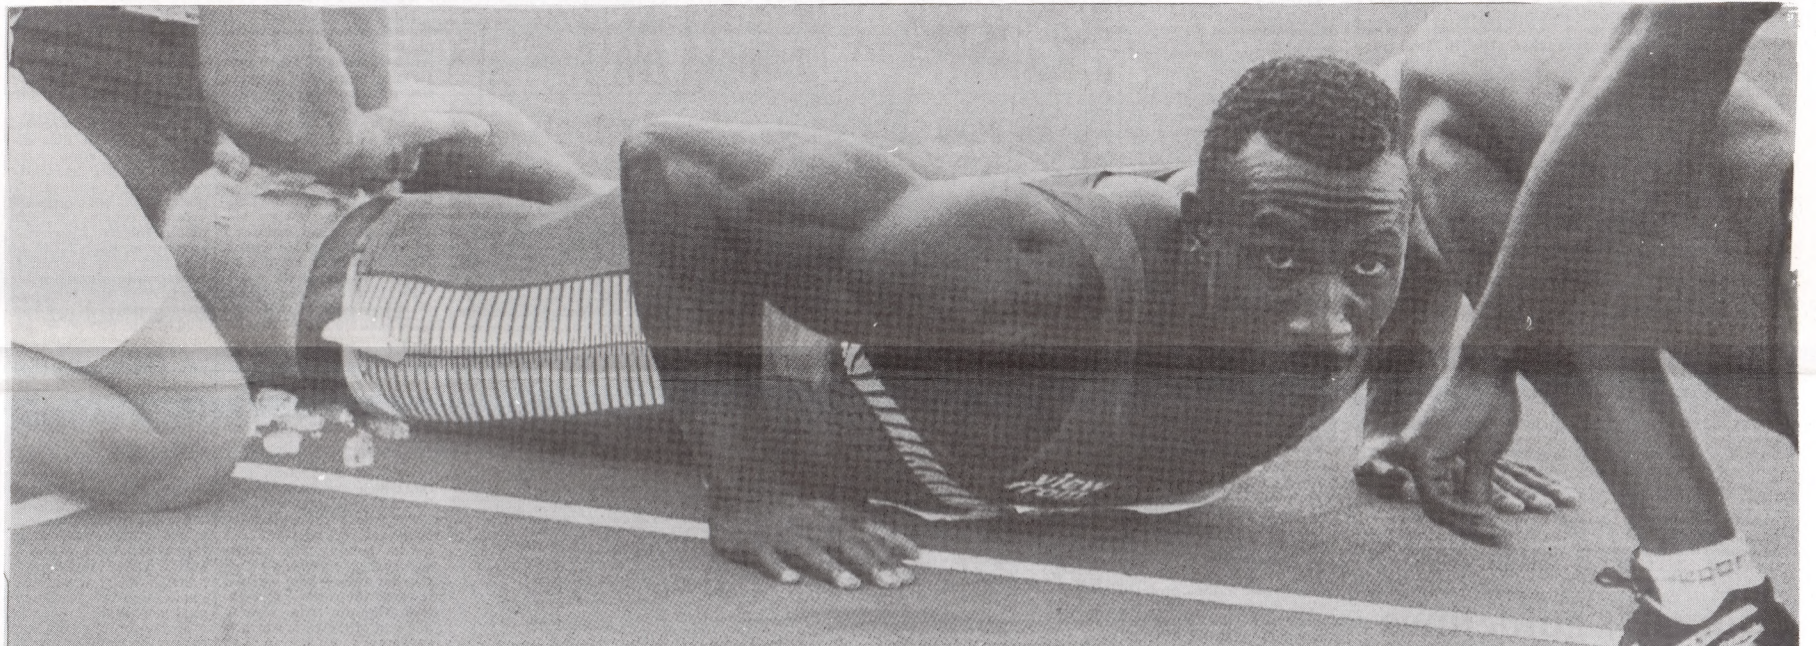

LENIN & TROTSKY

Lenin and Trotsky wanted to destroy the family as the basis for society. They failed. We now have a so-called Conservative Government in Britain which is doing its best to carry out the policies of Communism in this respect and many others. Ironically, they are succeeding far better than Lenin and his evil colleagues ever did.

DOWN BUT LAUGHING ALL THE WAY TO THE BANK:

Linford Christie is a millionaire who can command £30,000 a race, but has largely left the expense of bringing up his children to be borne by the poor British taxpayer.

Sociologists say that 'colonial revenge' explains the reluctance of black fathers to take responsibility for their children. Christie responded to his 16-year-old son becoming a father by saying 'Like father like son'. Is he, a millionaire, claiming to be hard done by because of colonial history?

ANNOUNCEMENT

BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY Annual Rally

This to inform all party members and other nationalists wishing to attend that the British National Party's 1995 Annual Rally will be held on Saturday November 11.

Details of how to get to the rally will be given later in British Nationalist and Spearhead. We urge all our readers to keep this date free. BNP branches should begin NOW organising their members to get to the event.

For security reasons the exact venue of the rally will not be advertised publicly, but it is intended to provide ways of enabling people to get there who genuinely wish to attend.

As in the case of last year's rally, people will have the best chance of attending if they link up with delegations coming from their local areas, who will travel as groups.

Please contact your local BNP organiser for details nearer the date. We emphasise again that, to avoid disappointment, you should arrange to travel to the rally with your local group.

'Benefit Tourism' crackdown leaves British OAPs broke

THOSE who are cynical about the honest intentions behind the Government's claims to be stopping immigration, and free handouts to foreigners, have had more ammunition added to their stocks. The Government claimed recently to be cracking down on 'benefit tourism' - regulations which allowed those from abroad to visit Britain, and receive paid holidays at the expense of British taxpayers. New regulations are, in fact, being mainly used to block the legitimate claims of bona-fide British citizens returning from overseas. Many of the victims are British old-age-pensioners, who are being left destitute.

A new 'habitual residence' test was introduced last August to block visitors' claims to social security benefits. Eastbourne Citizens Advice Bureau say that the main losers are not foreigners, but our own people. There are no funds available for those waiting a decision, even if they have young children.

As a result says John Trainor, manager of Eastbourne CAB, "Pensioners, who have lived and worked in Britain for decades, and those who have served in the armed forces, are reduced to relying on handouts from friends, family, and local charities."

"This cannot have been the Government's intention when framing the test, which we were told would stop visiting backpackers trying to claim benefit. We appeal to the Government to think again" he said.

BN says business as usual - foreigners first!

'COMMUNITY CENTRE' WHERE GUNMEN RULE

Police and bailiffs fail to retake controversial Harlesden centre

A 'COMMUNITY CENTRE' ruled by gunmen, within which there have been two murders during the last year alone, and against which the police and council are virtually powerless - can such a thing happen in Britain? It has happened and continues to happen.

The Bridge Park Centre, in North London's high immigrant Harlesden, was opened by Prince Charles in 1982. He described it as 'a breakthrough in the rejuvenation of inner cities'. Converted from a disused bus garage, the centre was Europe's largest black community project, costing £3.5million in public money - a shining example of positive action by the black community working together.

Thirteen years later, at dawn during August, five vans full of riot police, bailiffs, and Brent council staff, went to the centre to repossess it on behalf of the council. They said it had been taken over by criminals and drug dealers. £11 million of taxpayers money had been thrown into the project over the last ten years, and any service to the community it had once provided had ceased.

Six hours later a hostile crowd had gathered, and a gun was pulled on council staff. The centre was 'reoccupied' in the name of the 'community' and the council withdrew. "Staff safety was paramount" said Brent Chief Executive George Benthall "We had no option but to leave the site." The council now say that they will take no further action until after the Notting Hill Carnival.

WELCOME TO... The 'Community Centre' controlled by gunmen against whom even the police are powerless. Volunteer staff Sonia Davis and Mustafa Derbal (pictured) say they have been 'cleaning up our act' - despite bailiffs and police being forced out at gunpoint

GUNS IN WAISTBANDS

The centre was wound up by the High Court last October. The Harlesden People's Community Council (HPCC), which ran it, had failed to pay debts of £1m. Brent Council cut off its grant in 1992, describing the centre as 'reminiscent of a vast public toilet'. The crimes committed within the centre during the last year alone make shocking reading.

- Two murders
- Four rapes
- One armed robbery
- Two shootings
- Seven serious assaults

The bar had become likened to the 'Wild West', frequented by men with guns poking out of their waistbands.

For years the centre had been a haven for criminals. The police felt that it was better to leave the situation be, since it concentrated criminals in one place. It was regarded as the capital's drugs supermarket.

From the beginning Bridge Park was run on a dubious basis. The directors of the HPCC were also revealed as directors of the building firm which converted it, and no proper books were kept. Cynics say that public money would have been withdrawn far earlier if the project had been a white one.

The building is now controlled by volunteers who call themselves the 'Rainbow Committee'. They say the council left voluntarily.

NEW RIOTING AS ASIANS CLASH

Rioting erupted in Bolton early in August, when hundreds strong gangs of Asians clashed in the Daub Hill area of the city. The trouble began after skirmishes between Indians and Pakistanis, in which a gun was reported to have been produced.

Local Indian youths said that vanloads of Pakistanis had been 'infiltrating' their community. After the initial trouble more Pakistanis arrived in a convoy, and found 500 Indians blocking their way, leading to violence.

The national media, following the unavoidable publicity concerning the Bradford riots, because of their scale, almost completely censored news of the new disturbances.

WHITE POLICE OFFICER SUES FOR RACIAL DISCRIMINATION

A WHITE Manchester detective is taking his force to court, after claiming racial and sex discrimination. Bolton-based Jeff Collier - 20 years a police officer - says he was rejected for specialist jobs because he was white and male.

Detective Constable Collier is taking Greater Manchester Police to a tribunal for barring him from key jobs because he is not black or a woman. The case is seen as a test of the Police authority's 'equal opportunities policy'.

The hearing may be in camera since it involves sensitive police undercover operations. Mr Collier is expected to call his wife as a witness.

CALL FOR ASIAN ORGAN DONORS

MANCHESTER'S Asian community are being asked to become organ donors. Local hospital chiefs have revealed that 20% of those awaiting kidney transplant operations in the city are Asians.

Despite the need for donated organs among Asians there is desperate shortage of donors coming forward from within that community to offer organs after their deaths. Manchester Royal Infirmary transplant surgeon Neil Parrott said: "In the last ten years I have never seen or come across a single Asian donor. That gives an indication of how significant this problem is."

TO THE POINT

In his years as a Minister George Walden would have met highly educated officials in charge of the machine who had made up their minds how the people of Britain had to be handled. That way involved large-scale prevarication, and no other way would have been permissible.

"We have reached" wrote Mr. Walden sarcastically after announcing his departure "the stage where to tell the truth would be suicidal."

In such circumstances change must come from the bottom up. The people of Britain have to realise they are being patronised, lied to, deceived and insulted day in and day out by politicians of all parties. There are signs that they are starting to work this out, which is why they hate politicians so much, but few can articulate what they want instead.

Power passes to the highly educated moral cowards who manage decline in Whitehall. In recent years the only politician of stature to force-feed the public the unvarnished truth was Enoch Powell, and he received no thanks either. The atmosphere of unfree-thinking Mr. Walden has described is more like 1930s. Moscow than 1990s. Westminster.

Simon Heffer - Daily Telegraph July 26 1995

It would be nice to see more and better immigrant quarters. Almost all of the ethnic groups who end up here add a lot to the gaiety of life in the capital.

If you want an argument in favour of the urgent necessity of a fresh foreign intake, one look at the Tory Party Conference - this collection of British bulldog Anglo-Saxon frights - would surely convince you.

Surely the ethnic mix within the British Royal Family is reassurance enough that foreigners will assimilate over time.

Melanie McDonagh - London Evening Standard August 2 1995

Meet the Beaney's!

Isle of Dogs family run a bogus marriage racket for illegal immigrants

A SLEAZY Isle of Dogs family has been exposed by a national newspaper as running a wedding racket for illegal immigrants. The Beaney's (Diane, Di, and John, pictured top right with a masked reporter) charge £2,000 a time to arrange bogus weddings, which are intended to allow illegal migrants the right to stay in Britain.

The racket was exposed after the Beaney's, who live in a Docklands flat in East London, offered the reporter £1,000 to marry a 29-year-old illegal immigrant from Sierra Leone. 45-year-old Mrs. Beaney is the brains behind the racket. She keeps a cheap wedding ring which has already been used for plenty of sham weddings.

The illegal migrant, Abdul Sheriff (pictured) came here in 1990. It would have taken only seven minutes in a register office to give him the papers he needs to get the Home Office to allow him to settle in Britain. A nervous Abdul, however, fled minutes before the marriage ceremony after reporters revealed themselves.

A marriage racketeer was jailed for three years recently, and the Beaney's days may well be numbered since the newspaper which exposed them has passed on its dossier to the police.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUNT

Sham marriages are just one of the ways in which the continuing flood of immigrants into Britain establish a legal right to stay. BN says why bother getting married - who checks up on illegals anyway? There are an incredible 400,000 illegal Nigerian immigrants in London alone. When did you last see a check being made?

Occasionally the Government takes some well publicised action to allay public fears, but the numbers involved make it quite clear that it is a public relations stunt.

The number of people expelled from Britain is actually falling - despite claims that rules are being tightened. It is about 5,000 a year at the moment, when, according to former Government Chief Immigration Officer Peter Tompkins, at least 120,000 more immigrants are coming in every year!

WHITE MUM'S FACE CARVED BY MUGGERS

TWO men shouted 'Peace white bitch' as they carved a star into a young mum's face during a horrific mugging attack. Police are hunting two Rastafarians, who struck a 20-year-old Michelle Turner walking home with her two-year-old daughter Mica.

Michelle was walking along a footpath, after visiting her sister in Ancoats, when the two thugs grabbed her from behind near Palmerston Street. She says: "I felt his hand come round my head, and he reached into my pockets taking £20 and cigarettes."

"When he had got that, the other man pulled out an article which was sharp like a razor, and held it against my cheek. He said 'Peace white bitch' and the two of them left." When Michelle got home she found the men had cut three lines in the shape of a star into her cheek. "I have never been as scared in my life" said Michelle later.

The men had short dreadlocks, were in their late twenties, and one had a scar above his eye, and a 'ganja' symbol on his jacket. One was slim, and the other stocky and 6' 2" in height. Police have recorded the incident as a racist attack.

BN BRIEFING

SOCIAL DIARY

BN Briefing takes this opportunity to warmly congratulate the editor of the Mail on Sunday, Jonathan Holborow, on his recent marriage to Vivien at St Mary Magdalene Church in Richmond, Surrey.

Among the guests were Mr. Holborow's brother Paul Holborow - a well known Trotskyite - and also the Home Secretary Michael Howard.

Some people have the very odd idea in their heads that Trotskyite groups are above the law, in view of the extraordinary dearth of arrests of their members, despite a constant fomenting of riots, and assaults on the police, all over the country. Wonder why?

ANOTHER FUNNY THING

Westminster Council staff were out in force recently removing posters advertising a rally by fundamentalist Muslims in Trafalgar Square. More posters appeared, however, as fast as they were removed.

The Council's action followed complaints from the Jewish Board of Deputies. The group running the rally, Hizb-ut-Tahrir, has expressed doubt as to the truth of the Holocaust story.

The same praiseworthy diligence in cleaning up the streets curiously fails to appear in the case of the illegal Trotskyite poster so evident in inner city areas.

Before he travelled to Russia, to organise mass murder of peasants, Jewish intellectual Mr. Lev Bronstein, (Trotsky's real name), lived in New York and appeared in early silent porno-films.

A CRUEL BLOW

TV viewers, who watched a recent edition of Channel 4's Europa Express, will have been shocked to learn that a Toulon ultra modern dance troupe intends to leave the city as a protest against Jean-Marie Le Pen's Front National taking control of the council. The troupe is of a highly progressive nature and will be much missed by Toulon's citizens. Not a gay day!

Eight years for hand grenade robber

AN ARMED ROBBER who terrified building society staff with a grenade received only eight years imprisonment following conviction at Birmingham Crown Court.

Mohammed Sujad, 24, of Newtown, was caught after a security video picture was published in a Birmingham newspaper. He robbed two Heart of England building societies in Birmingham - chosen because they were open plan.

In both raids a gun and a grenade were used to terrify staff. An accomplice played with the pin of the grenade in one raid. As Sujad left he told staff "Thank you for your custom."

Both robberies were caught on video, and someone who recognised Sujad informed police. He was arrested after visiting a police station concerning another matter.

His defence counsel told the court that Sujad was not a desperate criminal, but a young and foolish man who used 'bluff'. Sujad was convicted of robbery, firearms offences, handling stolen goods, and forgery.

West Midlands Police were delighted by the result, and by the effectiveness of the local newspaper's Crimestoppers column which published the raiders picture.

Plain tales of life in Britain

Foreign seamen 'forget' English in emergencies

THE GOVERNMENT has scrapped 76-year-old rules requiring the master and senior officers of British ships to be British or Commonwealth citizens. From August total foreigners can crew our ships, not only as seamen but as senior crew members. What effect will it have on the unrivalled safety record of British ships - let alone on the employment prospects of British seagoers - in view of present experience with foreign ordinary seamen?

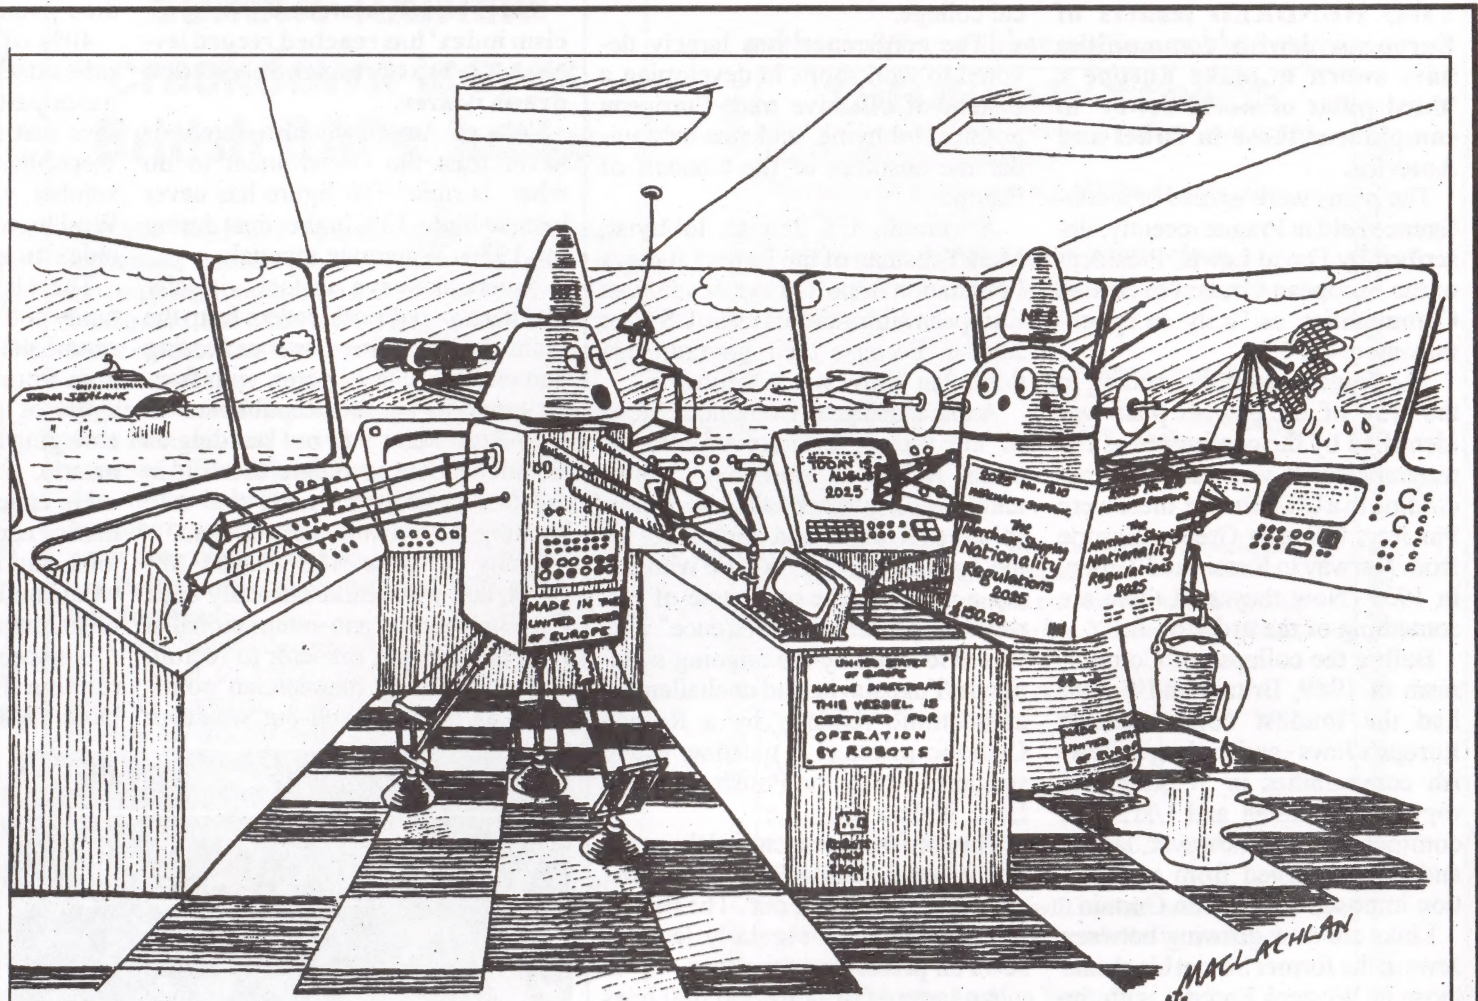

Let a British captain, who identifies himself understandably only as Seamen's Union Member 180820, speak:

"Is the Government trying to sink what is left of the British merchant fleet? With the change of UK officer rules he is having a good go. His ideas of multi-national crews and safety are a long way from reality.

I am the Master of a British ship (there are a few of us left) engaged on White Sea to Black Sea trade. In order to remain competitive, the company has engaged a number of foreign seamen. Some are fluent in English, but in an emergency all forget what little command they have of the English language. As a result, I have put them ashore as their lack of English has compromised the ship's safety.

Who sacks the ship's safety? Do we wait for disaster, or do we maintain a high reputation for safety?"

One in ten of the foreign flagged ships in UK ports over the past year had so many faults that they were prevented from leaving before remedial work was carried out, and research has shown that mixed nationality crews are far less safe. The worst are ships under 'flags of convenience' like Panama.

SPREADING THE WORD

British National Party Handbook on PROPAGANDA

SPREADING THE WORD is a handbook on propaganda that has just been produced by the British National Party to supplement its Activists' Handbook, published last year. Spreading the Word is illustrated and runs to 60 pages. It contains five sections, namely: (1) General Principles of Propaganda; (2) Recruitment; (3) Canvassing for Elections; (4) Speaking to the Media; and (5) Speaking from the Platform and Presentation of Party Meetings.

This handbook devotes special attention to familiar enemy smears against the BNP and nationalists generally, advising the reader on the best techniques for dealing with these, whether they be raised in the process of trying to recruit new members, when canvassing voters on the doorstep or when taking part in interviews with the press, radio or television. The handbook is a mine of information on every problem involved in spreading the nationalist message and winning support for the BNP. It costs £1.50 plus 36p p&p.

PRAGUE CONFERENCE PLANS EUROPEAN 'THIRD PILLAR OF WORLD JEWRY'

TWO HUNDRED leaders of European Jewish communities have sworn to make Europe a 'third pillar of world Jewry' to complement those in Israel and America.

The plans were agreed at a conference held in Prague recently, described by David Lewis, President of the European Council of Jewish Communities, as "truly an epoch-making event."

The biggest problem standing in the way of the Jewish plan was identified by the conference as demographics. It was said that, according to a US estimate, there were 9m Jews living in Greater Europe from Norway to Russia and Turkey in 1939. Now they said there are something of the order of 3m.

Before the collapse of Communism in 1989, Britain and France had the loudest voices among Europe's Jews - and the largest Jewish communities in Western Europe. The Russian and Ukrainian communities are, however, larger, and have emerged from an isolation imposed by the Iron Curtain.

Links are now growing between Jews in the former Soviet block and those in Western Europe, with the expectation of offering a united front in future to advance their interests. Swedish Jews give newsprint for eastern periodicals, and easterners attend London's rabbinical college.

cal college.

The conference was largely devoted to workshops in developing a system of effective trans-European political lobbying, and was held under the auspices of the Council of Europe.

A veteran US Jewish lobbyist, Mark Talisman of the Project Judea Foundation, reported that seven East European ambassadors to the US were Jewish, because their governments think that "Jews run Washington".

Another delegate, Dominique Moisi of the French Institute of International Relations, said that Communism's collapse had led to an "atmosphere of freedom and foreboding for the Jews of Europe. We are witnessing a return to the real curse of Europe: the power of indifference." This was evidenced by the ongoing situation in Yugoslavia, and unchallenged anti-semitic remarks by a Roman Catholic priest at a meeting which was attended by the Polish president Lech Walesa.

The conference discussed the question of what makes a Jew, with discussion of 'marrying out'. The British Jewish Chronicle regularly lectures Jews on preserving their race.

A quarter of Britain's 300,000 Jews are over 65. 95% of Polish Jews are over 70, and it is said that neither the Polish, Czechoslovak, or Rumanian Jewish communities have a future on account of their age profile.

EXPLOSIVE RISE IN US 'CYNICISM INDEX' AS ELECTION LOOMS

THE closely watched US 'cynicism index' has reached record levels as the next presidential election draws nearer.

76% of Americans now rarely or never trust the Government to do what is right. The figure has never been so high - 13% higher than during the 1970s Watergate scandal.

Americans have, in fact, virtually given up on political leaders from the main parties. There are increasing demands for a third party, with frantic attempts by the Republicans to woo Ross Perot into not standing as an independent candidate, as he did in the last presidential race, and into backing the existing party system.

Many of those who backed Mr. Perot, and who enthusiastically back Pat Buchanan's anti-internationalist line, are proving difficult to recruit. They see all the mainstream politicians as prone to sell-out whatever their popular rhetoric.

40% of the electorate now considers itself independent of the two major parties. Pollster Frank Luntz says that those who voted for the 'Republican revolution', last November, were really voting against Washington in itself - the 'cynicism index' in action.

There is a greater than ever opportunity for a third-party presidential candidate in 1996. Pat Buchanan goes from strength to strength with a list of popular policies, and is emerging as the inheritor of Perot's mantle.

He attacks GATT, scorns 'affirmative action' guaranteeing blacks jobs, and says that as president he would build a fence to stop Mexican illegal immigration.

His speeches have made the front running Republican candidates, Dole, Wilson, and Gramm, look like representatives of nothing but the Washington status quo - 'politics as usual' in fact.

Buchanan has said, however, that he will not launch an independent party but wants the Republican nomination. Last time Perot split the Republican vote, and an independent could let in Clinton again for a second term as president.

BRITISH NATIONALIST NEEDS YOUR HELP!

BRITISH NATIONALIST is pleased to announce that sales are at record levels, thanks largely to increasing bulk orders by local units.

The massive influx of new members since the election of Derek Beackon in September 1993 has also boosted circulation, thanks to the greatly increased number of subscriptions by individual members and supporters of the BNP.

One thing which readers constantly request is more news about BNP activities up and down the country. Despite local party activity being at its highest level since the formation of the BNP, some units are still not letting us know of their good work! Units should send us regular reports, together with any photos and press cuttings.

Readers perform an invaluable service by sending us national, international, and local press cuttings, and other items. Local papers often cover issues suppressed in the national press. We have as a result been able to expose corrupt Labour councillors. Items of local news are often of great importance in building up a national picture of what is happening. Please do not mark press cuttings, excepting the date and name of newspaper (if not shown) since this may prevent reproduction in BN.

Please help us by keeping those news items rolling in!

CHELSEA HOSTS BEST YET PARTY SEMINAR

THE BNP's ongoing seminar programme really got into gear late in July. The best yet meeting was held in London's Chelsea.

The day began with a visit to the National Army Museum, which is next to the Chelsea Pensioners' Hospital near Sloane Square.

Elections Officer Eddy Butler gave a conducted tour, talking particularly about incidents in British 19th century military history, which are illustrated in paintings hung in the museum.

The seminar resumed after lunch in a venue nearby. Four speakers covered a wide range of topics.

First on was National Press Officer Michael Newland who talked about the history of British sea power up to the end of the 17th century. A second episode bringing us up to the present day would have to wait until the next seminar, he said!

The next speaker was an expert financial services salesman, who discussed the need for the party to bring to bear the art of salesmanship in putting across its message.

The essential difference between successful and unsuccessful people was no mystery, he said, the successful take action on their ideas.

Party members should believe in themselves, persist, dress to please, and above all study their technique of putting across the nationalist message until it was second nature.

Eddy Butler then spoke about branch strategy and tactics. The way forward, he said, was community politics. Local issues should be identified. The public found it far easier to support parties who drew matters to their attention which were close at hand, and familiar to them, rather than general statements about national matters.

The final speaker was Party Chairman John Tyndall who gave an inspiring address about the need for courage in our political work.

Party members who have not yet attended any of the meetings should certainly make sure to do so in future.

Sir:

The hairdresser opposite us is having to move because of the noise and threat from his neighbours' flat where two 'ladies of the night' entertain.

He tells me it is now unbearable - not only the noise but the threat from the 'clients' trying to break into his house, and stealing anything that is left outside in the yard. The police, of course, do not want to know, as I myself can testify.

He says his wife stops him from going out to them saying "We shall only get a brick through the window" - the same pathetic thing said to me many a time by fellow citizens.

So now we know.

We must not kick up against the streets of our country being ruined and taken over, with the complete collapse of decency, and of law and order, or "We might get a brick through the window."

Mr. C. Farrer, Peterborough, Cambs

Sir:

During the last 45 years there has been a non-stop stream of Africans and Asians into this country.

Now there are great areas which have become communities to these people, as the former residents have moved out, or, as in the case of an elderly couple I knew, been threatened and intimidated to the extent that they sought advice from the police and were advised to leave the area. The husband found it especially hard as it had been his family's home and he had been born in the house.

A few thousand immigrants would have been acceptable, but now there are far too many. Like prefers to live among like. I do not wish to live with Asians and Africans. If I did I would go to live in their countries.

They take advantage of all that this country and its welfare system has to offer, and yet they still carp and complain. Even if born here they are not of this country. It was said on TV recently that because another animal is born in a stable it does not make it a horse. Place of birth does not make one of that country.

Immigrants should be informed how the natives of this small and overcrowded island feel before they come: that we feel threatened when a city in under 40 years is half black, and that there is a rising tide of resentment.

Those who have made money here should return to their countries of origin and put some of their money and expertise to work to make something of those places.

Ms. M. Gough, Kirtlington, Oxfordshire

Sir:

In a year-and-a-half's time, along with the massive flood of other foreign aliens, we can expect wave after wave of Chinese from Hong Kong.

The past record shows that we can expect ten times the official number claimed to be allowed entry.

The British seem more oblivious to this threat than to other migrants. The Chinese are viewed, on the whole, as hard working and friendly chaps who run the local chip shop.

In fact Hong Kong has always been a world centre of the opium trade, with all its inherent problems. The Triads will bring more drugs and violence to the streets, with the inevitable wars with other drug gangs.

We must gear up to warn people of this threat.

Only a vote for the BNP can return this country to its rightful heritage where we can again be proud of Great Britain.

OUT AND ABOUT

HANWORTH ELECTION

Hounslow Organiser Warren Glass is standing for the BNP in a local council by-election in West London. The snap by-election was called after a Liberal councillor resigned in Hanworth. A hard-hitting leaflet campaign has drawn local press coverage on a scale not seen since Derek Beackon stood on the Isle of Dogs in 1993 and 1994. Polling day is August 31.

PRIVATE LEE CLEGG

An excellent Day of Action was held in Aldershot recently in support of Private Lee Clegg. Thousands of the special leaflet calling for his release were distributed. The Day of Action was held on a Saturday. On the following Monday Private Clegg was released!

WOKING MEETING

Woking Branch held its best yet meeting during July. Over 40 people heard addresses from National Organiser Richard Edmonds, from a PhD in History, and from BN Editor John Morse.

Mr. Morse spoke about his recent visit to the United States, and the more and more evident rightward trend which is to be found there among white people, which should give encouragement to all nationalists in every country.

MEN ARRESTED

Two men were arrested, and are on police bail, following an attack on BNP canvassers in Newham following which three party members needed hospital treatment lions of Asians in India and Pakistan. Have they sparked a revival in their economies?

If the presence of Asians created a rise in prosperity India and Pakistan would be among the wealthiest nations on earth. We would all be pleading to emigrate to their countries.

Mr. H. Mullin, Glasgow, Scotland

Sir:

Reading in the newspapers about massive fraud by the loony-left in Lambeth, it really is time the people responsible for this kind of thing were 'hung', at least politically.

This is a cry heard all too often from the voters in socialist controlled boroughs, but when will the public realise that Blairmania is not the correct bandwagon to jump on?

The answer is simple - when we are forced to endure a Labour Government already lurking menacingly on the horizon.

Mr. J. Atkinson, Bradford, W. Yorkshire

Sir:

The problem outlined by Mr. A. Boyce (August letters) is well understood, but did you know that in Hackney it is impossible to find a church for white people?

St John's has only 11 whites, the Stamford Hill Catholic church just three dear old ladies of 80. There is no church which is not almost entirely black.

Two years ago a group of English pensioners wrote to the Archbishop of Canterbury asking if it would be possible to have one church for the white people in Hackney.

They received a most insulting reply saying that their souls were in mortal danger if they did not change their ways.

I think the time for reform within the church has gone, and we should examine our commitment to the spirit within the context of our commitment to British Nationalism

Otherwise the church will die, and we will face an invasion of Eastern religions and white Muslims. We should start to think about this now. It will not solve itself after we gain power. Mr. W.A. Binding, London E5

BNP EXPANDS IN WEST!

Media and MPs. in deep shock ..

BNP units in the West of England have been out and about throughout the area in recent weeks - causing panic in Britain's discredited establishment!

A well-attended first meeting in Cheltenham paved the way for a Day of Action in Hereford. Thousands of Join us! leaflets were distributed in the town, and a large number of BN's too.

The result has been massive publicity for the party all over the West. A panic stricken Hereford Journal devoted most of its front page (shown above right) to a litany of complaint from left-wing councillors. As usual the normal views of most people in Britain - which is what the BNP expresses - were described in lurid terms. Plenty of nonsense about 'blood boiling' and calls for the BNP to be deprived of its democratic rights - from people who say they support democracy - until someone exercises the right of freedom of speech to express a view they dislike!

DISGRACE

The Western Daily Press (lower right), which circulates throughout the West Country, soon picked up the story with more condemnations from civic dignitaries in Bath - where the BNP will soon be campaigning. The Liberal Democrat MP for Bath Don Foster resorted to anything he could think up - claiming that the BNP was the National Front - a group which does not even exist! The BNP were a disgrace to British politics, he said.

BN says that it is our concealed political establishment, composed of people like Mr. Foster, who are the disgrace.

The public cannot even walk the streets of this country in safety after years of the liberal law and order policies promoted by politicians like Mr. Foster.

PRAYERS AGAINST BNP

Euro MEP for Hereford David Hallam was not going to let himself miss the opportunity for some publicity, and within a few days he was calling for prayer vigils.

"I would ask all churches in Hereford to make it a matter for urgent prayer to protect the city against the BNP" he said in the Hereford Journal.

BN says that what Mr. Hallam really wants the churches to pray for is his job. He hopes the public will not replace people like him with new representatives who carry out policies the public want - not the ones which benefit folk like Mr. Hallam.

MORE DAYS OF ACTION

Bristol & South West Branch held another Day of Action in the Kingswood area of Bristol recently.

A very successful paper sale in the Town Centre drew local people delighted to see the Union Jack flying. 2000 'Hang child murderers' were also distributed, and several membership enquiries received. The branch looks forward to returning to the town.

Local organiser Bruce Cowd has been harassed by the extreme-left wing trade union at his place of work concerning his holding of the local BNP box number - as a part of their 'democratic' activities of course. The branch is therefore using the Devon PO Box as a temporary measure.

OUTRAGE OVER BNP CAMPAIGN

By Kate Tonge

A LEAFLET campaign in Hereford by the British National Party has been condemned by city councillors.

They were united in their disgust at the party's leaflets and newspaper, said to contain racist material, delivered to homes in Newton Farm last Saturday.

They are writing to local MPs Colin Shepherd and Peter Temple-Morris and MEP David Hallam about the literature.

Hereford Mayor Councillor George Hyde said: "It is distasteful and we should condemn its distribution in Hereford."

Leader of the council David Short said: "We are 50 years on from the fight against Fascism and we can see it rearing its ugly head again. The price of liberty is eternal vigilance."

Civilised city

"It is being peddled by people stirring up hatred and bitterness and violence in a peaceful and civilised city."

Councillor Short called for help from local politicians to stamp out the distribution of BNP literature.

Councillor Bill Higgins said: "It makes my blood boil to think my comrades gave their lives to get rid of stuff like this."

Councillor John Newman, who received leaflets at his home, said there were "disgusting and degrading."

"There is a small ethnic minority in this city and we accept these people as our friends and neighbours."

Councillor Dave Hedley urged members to have faith in the people of Hereford.

"They will never allow this sort of thing get out of hand."

Liberal Democrat spokesman Paul Keetch wrote to the city council slamming what he called "vile political propaganda."

After the meeting he welcomed the council's condemnation of the BNP campaign in Hereford.

MP: We don't want BNP in our city

By Nicholas Cecil

THE extreme right wing British National Party has launched a huge recruitment drive across the West.

The party, which has been accused of blatant racism, has been holding meetings and distributing thousands of leaflets and newspapers in Cheltenham and Hereford.

And a spokesman said it would be soon increasing its activities in Bath and Weston-super-Mare.

so angry they challenged the people delivering it."

Bath's Liberal Democrat MP Don Foster said he had nothing but contempt for the BNP.

He said: "They are a total disgrace to British politics. They don't even have the honesty to say who they really are - the National Front."

"I urge everyone in Bath to look very carefully at their policies and treat them with the same contempt as I do."

The mayor of Bath Liberal Demo-

BNP on Internet soon!

The BNP intends to open its own site on the Internet very soon - bringing patriotic news and views to an entirely new audience. Within a year or two there will be literally millions of people in Britain alone who are connected to the Internet from their homes. In fact, anyone throughout the world with a computer and a telephone will be able read what we say. A revolution in communications is beginning which will sweep away the stranglehold which the controlled media exercises in Britain, censoring nearly everything which expresses the views of normal people. The BNP intends to be in the forefront of the new medium. Watch BN for news!

EMERGENCY APPEAL: TARGET NOW £10,828.00

Contributions over the past month to the special emergency appeal launched in April by the British National Party came to £1,158.00. This leaves £10,828.00 still to be raised to reach the fund's target of £20,000.

The figure for the month would have been a great deal lower but for one very generous donation from a single contributor amounting to £1,000. This is not the first time that this person has made such a sacrifice. Without it the figure of donations received for the month would be meagre, to say the least. This month we must manage to do better.

The party would like to thank all those who have sent in contributions to the emergency appeal. There is still, however, a long way to go. For the future, all those sending in money should address it to: BNP Emergency Fund and post it to PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW. We draw everyone's attention to the rule that receipts are sent only for donations of £10.00 or over unless specifically requested, in which case an SAE would be appreciated.

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of Government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people - the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, and the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
